School Buzz

A two-day symposium on 'What Ails School Education in India Today?' was held at Cambridge School, Noida. The seminar offered a panorama of perceptions on education through well researched discourses by distinguished educationists. The teacher educators of different schools who attended the programme were stimulated by the analytical presentations of the speakers which were frequently interspersed with probing queries and lively interactions. The keynote address highlighted the significance of love and affection in the teacher-student relationship. Commenting on the various forms of assessment conducted in schools today a panelist pointed out how the current assessment system is not commensurate with our learning objectives. The Society for the Advancement of Education which governs the Cambridge Schools organised the event. The symposium concluded with a vote of thanks by principal of Cambridge Noida. Dr Kalyani Roy, Secretary, SAE; Vikram Roy, Member Governing Body; Dilruba Kalsi, Director, ERC; members of the managing committees and principals of the sister schools attended the event.
